

Please don't take away the Indian telephone privacy law.
There is nothing worse than answering all of the selling calls.
When your sick in bed, trying to have dinner with your family the last thing you want to be bother with is a pushing saleperson on the phone. Alot of them will argue with you to get you to try their services. I think it should be my right to say I don't want the harressing phone calls. After all I am a proud, voting USA citizen, who has rights as well. Thank you for listening
